

DOUG LAZY

Doug Lazy is a Hip House and Dance Music artist and producer from Washington, D.C. formerly on Atlantic Records. Lazy scored a number of hip house hits in the late 1980's and early 1990's on the Hot Dance Music/ Club Play chart including three number one Billboard Dance hits: "Let It Roll", "H.O.U.S.E." and "Let the Rhythm Pump".

He has worked with a number of artists/DJ's including Marc Anthony, Louie Vega, Kenny Dope (Masters At Work), Fatboy Slim, Todd Terry, Stanley Clark, Bo Diddley, Ben E. King, Arthur Baker and many more. His music has been remixed by many artists and sampled in a number of movies most notably "Charlie's Angels".

Doug Lazy, is also a nationally known radio personality with previous top shows, production, voiceovers, and imaging at WPGC in Maryland, XM Satellite Radio in Washington, D.C., 99 Jamz (with DJ Khaled) in Miami, FL and more recently, V103 in Atlanta, GA.

Lazy's work has granted him access to perform in the hottest clubs, concerts and special events across the U.S. and in the UK. Lazy, recently teaming up with Quantize Recordings -DJ Spen and Tommy Davis to release the soulful house single "Church Clap", is excited to return to performing and treating fans to great music.

Click here to see the Church Clap Video