

MARC EVANS

Internationally known, locally respected.

Singer/songwriter, Marc A. Evans has been writing and performing for more than 15 years. A native Baltimorean, Evans was born into music, yet amazingly, this son of a painter & jazz saxophonist didn't discover his talent until studying Chemistry at Morgan State University. As a member of the world renowned Morgan State University Choir, Evans discovered his love for music. In 1993, Evans formed a band and covered jazz, funk, rock, pop, & soul. That year he began writing and recording songs he would later release on the compilation The First Seven Years, a soulful collection of rhythm & blues songs capturing his life & love experiences.

In 2004, while working as a session vocalist for Code Red Recordings, he wrote the single The Way You Love Me, a soulful house tune that has become a standard in the genre. After capturing the attention of Simon Dunmore, CEO of Defected Records UK, he recorded and released the full album The Way You Love Me in the fall of 2008 and the 2 disc Deluxe Edition in the fall of 2009. Independently, Evans also released both Live & Acoustic and Intervention in 2009 on his label VOR Music Group. He now pursues his writing and music full time performing in the US, Europe, Asia, and the Netherlands.

He will his first book, The Songbyrd's Lyric, in 2011 on www.dewdropcollectivepublishing.com.
