

OZ'iah

In 2006 Oz'iah smashed into the Music scene as part of the Sound bwoy entertainment collective, their smash hit single Never wanna say good bye rocket up the charts and opened the doors for one of the UKs brightest new stars. From a young age Oziah had a deep respect and passion for all types of music. Artist such as the late and great Michael Jackson, Whitney and Mariah inspired him to pursue his love of music. Oziah started his musical journey at 11 years old always impressing the world when he performed and wining countless admirers along the way. Oziah is a mix of African, Italian and Asian decent having such a diverse cultural background allowed him to experience music from all over the world, helping shape him as the artist he is today.

Oziah describes his personality as fun loving and crazy which is defiantly reflected in the music he produces. Oziah's describes his music as a perfect blend of RnB and pop with influences of different cultures such as African and Caribbean mixed in. Oziah's talent was not only noticed this side of the Pond, he was chosen out of 100 of artist to be the face of memorial week in ATL 2008 a huge achievement for any artist let alone one from the east end of London

Oz'iah had a real success with his first single 'Wine 4 me' Feat. Doctor with great support from radio stations like Choice FM, Kiss, Bang Radio, Galaxy, Dejavu, and BBC 1xtra, many of these stations still spinning the tune. Accompanied by a great video rotating on Flava, Virgin, Jukebox and AKA the tunes success also allowed Oz'iah to be the supporting act for Sean Kingston live at the Indigo 02. In addition he also had fantastic support on Myspace and did many under 18 tour dates up and down the country causing his fan base to grow substantially.