

THE SCIENTISTS OF SOUND

The Scientists of Sound was founded in 2012 from the collaboration of two DJ's: Roberto Reale and Fabio Giunta, specialised in Deep sounds, Afro, Soul and NuDisco.

Their lives crossed casually in 2011, in a summer evening, when they discovered that shared the same natural musical instincts.

Roberto Reale began his DJ career in 2001, playing in various musical clubs and in the best galas, also providing his voice to many radio stations. Fabio Giunta, a collector of vinyl records, took the same route in 2000 becoming a resident DJ in various clubs and looking after music selection in fashion and exclusive parties.

Today, The Scientists of Sound are Production Assistants for "VJSinc" production of legendary Dee Jay and Producer Victor Simonelli, one of the major authorities in the field of House Music and owner of several record labels including Bassline Records, Unkwn Records and West Side Records.

During their carriers, The Scientists of Sound had collaborated and played with many house music artists, including Dj's Tony Humphries, David Morales, Joey Negro, Dj Spen, the mentioned Victor Simonelli and many more.

These professionists never stopped to italian parties, but their name is extended also abroad. The locations that housed in The Scientist of Sound are:
